PROGRAMMING

OCTOBER 27–31, 2026 · BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA

From October 27 to 31, 2026, Buenos Aires hosts BITBANG 12, the International Animation Festival celebrating independent, auteur, and experimental animation. Over five days, the program brings filmmakers and audiences together through screenings, retrospectives, conversations, workshops, video games, installations, and a graphic arts fair.

At the heart of the program are two Academy Award-qualifying competitions: International Shorts and Latin American Shorts. BITBANG also presents Latin American Graduation Shorts, Panorama, music videos, and vertical animation. The 2026 edition introduces PiBit Bang, a new program for children with two competitions judged by the Neutrinos, a jury of young viewers aged 6 to 12.

Guests and participating artists include Bea Lema, Alberto Vázquez, Sonia Estévez, Frédéric Siegel, Camila Kater, Ala Nunu, Leo Campasso, Tomi Diéguez, Bellolandia, Dante Zaballa, Alexis Moyano, Ayar Blasco, Lu Roude, Abril Barrado, and many more. Screenings and discussions bring diverse approaches to animation into dialogue, while Academia BITBANG presents projects from its Advanced Directing and Storytelling Program.

Opening night takes place on Tuesday, October 27 at Cine Gaumont, with an international selection of shorts and a filmmaker Q&A. On October 28, International Animation Day, the festival presents Electro Andes, followed by a conversation with the Bellolandia team. Screenings and events continue at venues across Buenos Aires through October 31.

The festival’s 2026 visual identity, illustrated by Daniel Duche, revisits Fritz Lang’s Metropolis (1927), whose vision of the future was set in the year 2026. Almost a century later, BITBANG takes that imagined future as an invitation to explore new worlds and new ways of meeting through animation: a place for films, artists, and communities to connect.
